QUESTION 1

The Start Center is the home page for anyone logging in. Which statement describes the Start Center?

- A. The Start Center is used to provide a means to display pictures, files, and Portlets. This allows the user to configure the Start Center as a personalized environment specific to themselves.
- B. The Start Center is user selectable from the users application. This allows the user to change which Start Center they want to use each time they log in. It is this flexibility to change that makes the Start Center so configurable to meet the user's need.
- C. The start Center is configured to the specific role or job function of the person who has logged in. It can contain one or more Portlets, each of which is also configured to the specific role or job function of the person who has logged in. Only one start center can be assigned per security group.
- D. The start Center is configured to the specific role or job function of the person who has logged in. It can contain one or more Portlets, each of which is also configured to the specific role or job function of the person who has logged in. Multiple Start Centers can be assigned per security group.
