QUESTION 3

You are engaged as a UPK administrator and publisher for a customer who is in the process of upgrading their Oracle EBS application suite to R12.x. The UPK content development team has finished the first set of topics and asked you to publish the content, so their SMEs can directly access the topic they are responsible for. The SMEs are busy and do not have time to download Individual topics.

Which method should you choose to publish and distribute the content?

- A. Publish the content to the individual topic outputs and host the topics on a web server providing links to each topic.
- B. Publish the content using the Player/LMS output and distribute the player package folder to each SME.
- C. Publish the content using the Player/LMS output and host the content on a web server and provide the SMEs with a link to the play.exe file.
- D. Publish the content using the Player/LMS output and host the content on a web server and provide content developers a link tokp.html.

Correct Answer: B

QUESTION 4

A client who is installing UPK does not have Internet access from their computer. The computer also does not have Microsoft .NET Framework installed.

What can the client do to get UPK installed?

- A. .NET Framework is not an essential component for UPK. If a computer does not have .NET framework and cannot download it from the Internet, the UPK installation will still complete and UPK will work. The difference will be that Do It mode will not stay on top of the browser window during playback.
- B. The company can add the .NET Framework installation files to the UPK software installation media. When the UPK setup files are run on computers that do not have Internet access, the UPK setup wizard will find the .NET Framework Installation files locally.
- C. If a computer does not have .NET Framework installed and it does not have an Internet connection to download .NET Framework, UPK cannot be installed. The company would need to get Internet access for the computer.
- D. .NET Framework is not an essential component for UPK. If a computer does not have .NET Framework and cannot download it from the Internet, the UPK Installation will still complete and the UPK Developer recording capability will work. The difference will be that the Usage Tracking component will not be functional.

Correct Answer: B
