Correct Answer: BE

QUESTION 3

It is possible to download the same client configuration to an Avaya Equinox™ client when it is connected via the Public Internet (3G/4G) or when it is connected via a corporate Wi-Fi hotspot.

What statement below described the recommended technique used to do this?

- A. The Avaya Aura® Device Services (AADS) returns the configured list of all Public and Private IP addresses that the client should attempt to connect to.
- B. The client must be statically provisioned with the ordered list of server IP addresses that it should attempt to connect to (both private and public).
- C. Split horizon DNS mapping is configured in Avaya Aura® Device Services (AADS) to return FQDNs rather than IP addresses; the client resolves the FQDN to correct server address by DNS or local hosts file.
- D. The client automatically selects a different Avaya Aura® Device Services (AADS) profile when connected to a Public Internet Service Provider (ISP) based on an IP address subnet mapping table downloaded by Avaya Aura® Device Services (AADS).

Correct Answer: C
