QUESTION 3

A company wants to add some changes to the IBM Maximo Asset Management V7.5 (Maximo) SMP directory which will require a new EAR file build. Since the main Maximo administrator is on vacation, one of the IT staff members is asked to run the process. The IT staff member is an administrative domain user with access to the Maximo administrative workstation through remote desktop protocol. Once the changes are made the IT staff member proceeds to build a new EAR file by double-clicking on the buildmaximoear.cmd file with their login credentials. When the IT staff member checks for the new EAR file it is obvious by the older timestamp on the file that a new EAR has not been built.

Why was the new EAR file not built?

- A. The Maximo Java Virtual Machine is not running.
- B. The buildmaximoear.properties file is corrupt.
- C. Thebuildmaximoear.cmd file was not run with the proper privileges.
- D. An IT staff member must run the build process from a command prompt.
