QUESTION 1

How does the order of rule tests affect the ORE performance?

A. It does not affect the performance.

B. All tests in a rule are evaluated individually. Tests that have counters affect theORE performance and not the order of tests.

C. When analyzing the rules in pairs from top to bottom, the test at the top should always be the one most likely to fail because if it fails then ORE will not evaluate the following tests.

D. When analyzing therules in pairs going from top to bottom, the test at the bottom should always be the test that is most likely to fail. This ensures that the rule evaluation is optimized.
