QUESTION 1

Which of the following are goals of the Service Reusability design principle? Select the correct answer.

- A. To support the creation of services based upon agnostic service logic.
- B. To allow for service logic to be repeatedly leveraged over time so as to achieve an increasingly high return on the initial investment of delivering the service.
- C. To increase organizational agility by enabling wide-scale service composition from service inventories that contains a high percentage of reusable services.
- D. All of the above.

Correct Answer: D

QUESTION 2

The "contract first" approach to building services helps realize contract-to-logic coupling. Select the correct answer.

- A. True
- B. False

Correct Answer: B

QUESTION 3

Which of the following statements is true? Select the correct answer.

- A. A composition initiator must exist as a service.
- B. A composition initiator can be any type of program capable of invoking a service and therefore does not need to be service-oriented.
- C. A composition initiator is often associated with the intermediary role.
- D. None of the above statements are true.

Correct Answer: B

QUESTION 4

A company is about to release a service for worldwide usage. As a result, the service contract receives a great deal of attention. After a review it is decided to limit the service contract content to only what is deemed absolutely necessary and to further have the service's Service Level Agreement (SLA) translated into several different languages so that the service can be easily located by those who may want to use it. Which pair of service-orientation principles directly supports these design-time considerations? Select the correct answer.

- A. Service Autonomy, Service Reusability
- B. Service Statelessness, Standardized Service Contract
- C. Service Discoverability, Service Abstraction
- D. Service Reusability, Service Statelessness

Correct Answer: C

QUESTION 5

The enforcement of service contract design standards is required to effectively apply the Standardized Service Contract principle. Select the correct answer.

- A. True
- B. False

Correct Answer: A
