QUESTION 3

In which of the following cases would a Singaporean be prevented from accessing information about herself from an organization?

- A. The information was collected in the previous 12 months.
- B. The information is related to an individual's credit rating.
- C. The cost of providing the information proved to be unreasonable.
- D. Any personal information about others has been deleted from the document.

Correct Answer: B

In Singapore, individuals generally have the right to access their personal information held by organizations, subject to certain exceptions. However, of the options listed, the only scenario where a Singaporean may be prevented from accessing information about herself is:

- B. The information is related to an individual's credit rating.

Under the Personal Data Protection Act (PDPA) in Singapore, an organization may refuse an individual's request to access personal data if the data is evaluative, including confidential references provided by the individual or an individual's employer, or if it relates to an individual's creditworthiness, credit standing, credit history or credit rating.

- A. The time frame of 12 months is not relevant to the access rights of individuals in Singapore under the PDPA.
- C. While organizations are allowed to charge a fee for providing access to personal information, the cost of providing the information must be reasonable and cannot be used as a reason to deny access.

D. If personal information about others has been deleted from a document, the organization should still provide the individual with the relevant information about herself.
