In Microsoft Dynamics AX 2012, which of the following are valid sales order types? (Choose all that apply.)

A. Journal

B. Sales order

C. Blanket order

D. Sales agreement

E. Subscription

Correct Answer: ABE

When you create a sales order, you must indicate the type of order that it is. You can select one of the types that are described here:

*

 (A) Journal

Use as a draft; it has no effect on stock quantities and does not generate item transactions. Order journal lines are not included in master scheduling.

*

 (E) Subscription

Use for recurring orders. When the order is invoiced, the order status is set automatically to open order. Quantity delivered invoiced and remaining deliveries are updated.

*

 (b) Sales order

Use when the customer actually places or confirms an order.

*

 Returned order

Use when the customer returns items to stock. A return-item number (RMA number) is assigned automatically and can be viewed on the Other tab.

*

 Item requirements

Created automatically when you make an item sale through a Project module. The project number can be seen in the Project column.
